1 we used for classifying states as having a state-level
2 permit requirement is simply that the state requires a 3 permit, a state permit for the purchase and possession 4 of firearms.

5 Q. In your review of those -- of the literature 6 and your research, did you consider any of the 7 differences between those state permitting schemes and 8 how that would affect your opinion?

9 A. No, I'm not aware of any studies that have 10 looked at details about how the permitting scheme is 11 specifically done to try to differentiate, you know,
12 whether there are certain features of the permit
13 requirement that have differential effects.

14 Q. So do you have an opinion as to whether 15 particular details of a state permitting scheme are 16 more or less important, essential to your conclusion 17 about reduction of homicides and mass shootings?

18 A. I don't believe that they are that important 19 because the evidence is quite robust from multiple 20 studies that have looked at multiple states, and we're 21 not seeing discrepancies in the research so we're not 22 seeing, you know, in one state there was an effect and 23 another state there wasn't an effect.

24 Pretty much in every state that's been looked 25 at there has been an effect, so my opinion would be

1 that there is no reason to believe that details about 2 the permitting system are going to change my opinion 3 about its effectiveness.

4 Q. So, for example, if different state law
5 permitting schemes have different periods of time
6 between how long it takes to apply for and obtain a 7 permit, that in your opinion wouldn't change your 8 conclusion in this case --

9 A. No.

10 Q. -- is that right?

11 A. It wouldn't because, again, the evidence is 12 so robust. The effect sizes are huge and the number 13 of studies that were done in very different states 14 that had very different details, none of that seems to 15 make a difference. These studies are finding a large 16 effect pretty much across the board.

17 Q. In your view in reviewing the permitting
18 schemes for the purchase and possession of firearms, 19 are there any elements of those schemes, and we can 20 get into it more specifically, that are more or less 21 important to you in your conclusion that they reduce 22 homicides and mass shootings?

23 In other words, these schemes have a lot of 24 different pieces to them. Is there any core 25 components that to you make up the effective part of

1 scheme that in your view are more important than 2 others as far as having the reduction in homicides and 3 mass shootings, in your opinion?

4 A. No, that's the only element that I'm aware of 5 where there's research to show that it makes a 6 difference.

7 Q. And you're aware that state laws that require 8 state permits for the purchase and possession of 9 firearms include a certain recordkeeping component to 10 them?

11 A. Yes, typically they do.

12 Q. Okay. And in your opinion, do those 13 components of those state laws have the effect of 14 reducing homicides or mass shootings?

15 A. Well, we can't tell exactly -- you know, what 16 I can opine is that based on the research, having a 17 requirement for a state permit decreases the amount of 18 firearm violence, but there's not research that allows 19 me to, you know, take apart the law into its 20 components and say which component of this is 21 responsible, you know, or is it, you know, all the 22 components working together. There's just not 23 research to make a determination as to what component 24 is really essential or it may be that the whole system 25 is what is making the difference.

1 that component of the scheme would not be responsible 2 for reduction in gun violence?

3 A. Yes, based on the other research that I've 4 seen and conducted, I would not expect that the 5 registration aspect is what is really responsible for 6 reducing the gun violence.

7 Q. So, in your report, at least in this part of 8 your opinion, we're looking at page 24 of Exhibit 6
9 starting with heading Roman number II, I didn't see a 10 specific reference to Oregon Measure 114. Did you 11 consider specific provisions of Oregon Measure 114 or 12 is your opinion more generally about 13 permit-to-purchase programs?

14 A. Well, the -- well, first of all, I did
15 consider and, you know, look at Oregon's law, but I 16 believe that the best way to estimate what the likely 17 effect of Oregon's law would be is to look at the 18 experience of other jurisdiction that have a 19 permitting scheme, and based on that, you know, I 20 listed all the studies in table B and we can look at 21 the range of estimates, but I would expect that that 22 would be the experience that Oregon would have.
23 There's no reason for me to believe that somehow 24 Oregon would experience something different from other 25 states that have permitting schemes.

1 Q. Can you identify what parts of Measure 114's 2 permit-to-purchase program would reduce the number of 3 deaths from homicides and mass shootings or are you 4 considering it sort of as a whole?

5 A. I'm considering it as a whole.

6 Q. So that means you can't tell me which parts 7 of it would specifically reduce the number of deaths 8 from homicides or mass shootings?

9 A. I can -- I can look at the different 10 provisions and I could offer an opinion as to what 11 parts of it are likely to be the parts that are going 12 to most likely be reducing firearm violence based on 13 the research that we've done, but my -- that wasn't 14 really a part of my opinions. I wasn't really asked 15 to say, Okay, which part of this is going to have the 16 effect, and my testimony clearly is based on the 17 overall -- having this overall permitting scheme.

18 Q. Let me ask you about Measure 114 then. I'm 19 going to mark it as Exhibit 7.

20 (Deposition Exhibit No. 7 was marked for 21 identification.)

Page 63

1 Q. (By Mr. Nichols) So, Dr. Siegel, I'll 2 represent to you that this is a copy of Measure 114 as 3 it's found on the Oregon Secretary of State's web 4 page, and have you read this document before?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. I'm going to ask you then about a couple 7 parts of the permit-to-purchase process. Can you see 8 my screen okay?

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. We're looking at section 4, page 2 of 11 Exhibit 7, and to focus in on section 4(1)(b), A 12 person is qualified to be issued a permit to purchase 13 under this section if the person, and then it lists 14 five different components. Do you see that?

15 A. Yes.

16 Q. Okay. So the first one, so this section 17 4(1)(b)(a) states that, A person is qualified to be 18 issued a permit to purchase under this section if a 19 person is not prohibited from purchasing or acquiring 20 a firearm under state or federal law including, but 21 not limited to, successfully completing a criminal 22 background check as described in paragraph E.

23 And we can look at paragraph E if we need to, 24 but in your opinion, does this section -- would this 25 section of the law have an effect at reducing gun

1 violence?

2 A. Yes, I think this would contribute to the 3 effect.

4 Q. Okay. And why is that?

5 A. Because the -- essentially it's going to 6 screen out anyone who is prohibited under federal law 7 or under state law, and so that means that all the 8 prohibitions that are in federal law and in state law 9 are kind of automatically being incorporated here, and 10 so that would include, you know, people with felony 11 convictions, people with domestic violence 12 convictions, people who are under restraining order for 13 domestic violence, and those are all very high-risk 14 situations for violent crime.

15 Q. All right. We're looking at Exhibit 7, 16 section 4(1)(b)(b), and this refers to, Is not the 17 subject of an order described in ORS 166.525 to 18 166.543. Do you know what that refers to?

19 A. As I recall, I believe those are the domestic 20 violence restrictions.

21 Q. Is this similar to the red flag laws that you 22 were discussing earlier?

23 A. No, no, this is the -- I believe sections 24 166.525 to 543 are actual protection order -- well, 25 yes, they're similar in that these are protection

1 was -- I misspoke and I certainly would correct myself
2 at this point having seen it. Clearly this is the red 3 flag law, and so it is referring to people who are 4 under a red flag law -- or an extreme risk protection 5 order.

6 Q. So let me switch back and go over to 7 Measure 114. So, with your memory refreshed about 8 what ORS 166.525 to 543 refers to, we're looking at 9 Exhibit 7, which is Measure 114, section 4(1)(b)(b).
10 This component in your opinion, would this have the 11 effect of reducing the number of deaths from gun
12 violence?

13 A. Yes, I believe it would contribute to that.

14 Q. And why do you say that?

15 A. Because the -- I mean, basically the reason 16 why I believe that permit requirements for the 17 purchase of a gun are effective in reducing firearm 18 violence is because they identify people who are high 19 risk of committing violence and keep guns out of their 20 hands, and to the extent that these requirements here
21 in A, B and C are identifying people who are at high 22 risk for violence, this law will be effective in 23 helping keep guns out of their hands, and I would 24 expect that that would reduce firearm violence.

25 Q. Right, and I'm asking right now about B,

1 which would you agree with me that's a red flag law as 2 you previously described them?

3 A. Yes.

4 Q. So, in your opinion, that section would have 5 the effect of reducing firearm violence. Correct?

6 A. Yes.

7 Q. I want to move to subsection C. So we're 8 looking at Exhibit 7, which is Measure 114, section 9 4(1)(b)(c), and this one says that, A person is 10 qualified to be issued a permit to purchase under this 11 section if the purchase -- if the person, excuse me, 12 does not present reasonable grounds for a permit agent 13 to conclude that the applicant has been or is 14 reasonably likely to be a danger to self or others or 15 to the community at large as a result of the 16 applicant's mental or psychological state or as 17 demonstrated by the applicant's past pattern of 18 behavior involving unlawful violence or threats of 19 unlawful violence. Do you see that?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. Okay. In your opinion -- well, before I get 22 to your opinion, I want to break this down a little 23 bit. That standard, Do not present reasonable grounds
24 for a permit agent, do you know who the permit agent 25 would be in this case?
